Measure the dogs waist, in front of the hind leg and over his sheath.

Make sure you measure the complete circumference, all the way around.

How to select the band width:

Short bodied dogs do better with the slender fit because you do not want the pee band to be under their front leg armpit.

Pee Bands

Pee Bands are made to deter the most persistent male markers. It is a girdle design that is designed to go over the sheath and provide pressure of the band deters male dogs from marking. For persistent markers you can add a sanitary napkin to the lining of the pee band to capture drips. They are made in colorful designs and are washer and dryer friendly.
